Inclusion North News

Inclusion North will share an important news story and tell you about their own work here every two weeks.

Inclusion North are going to be delivering the Oliver McGowan Mandatory Training to some health and social care organisations.

Oliver was a young man with a learning disability and autism who died in hospital.

Oliver's mum campaigned to make sure health and social care staff have better skills, knowledge and understanding of the needs for autistic people and people with a learning disability.

Our trainers, Denise, Kirsty and Sandy have all received their training on how to deliver these webinars.

They had to deliver a webinar and make a recording to send for assessment, which thankfully they passed. They will all receive our certificates shortly.

They are all looking forward to supporting health and care staff to make a difference for people with a learning disability and autistic people using health and social care services.

Don't forget to change your clocks on Sunday 29th October.

The reason we change the clocks by an hour in Autumn is to give everyone more day-light hours in the morning, making it safer to travel to work and school.

It will also soon be time to celebrate Halloween on Tuesday 31st October.

Where does Halloween come from?

It was a non-religious celebration to welcome the harvest in at the end of summer, when people would light bonfires and wear costumes to ward off any ghosts.

Children often like to have fun and knock on people's doors for a Trick or Treat.

Please don't feel you have to provide a treat – if you are worried don't answer your door.

In the meantime, Happy Halloween.
